Dear Alabama Traveler:

Rediscover the romantic allure and classic traditions of the Golden Age of Travel on this extraordinary North Atlantic voyage and transatlantic crossing. Evoke the age of great ocean liners when you board the luxury, Six-Star Silversea M.V. SILVER WHISPER amid the historic docks of lower Manhattan. Experience the excitement and anticipation of a bygone era while majestically cruising past the Empire State Building, rounding the spectacle of Manhattan's skyline and setting sail on the most exceptional and unique itinerary ever offered for a transatlantic crossing.

Cruise aboard the Six-Star Silversea 100% Ocean-View, all-Suite M.V. SILVER WHISPER. This luxury ship carries only 382 guests and features Six-Star exclusives and inclusions not available on typical "mega-ships." Six-Star accommodations are all Suite configurations; there is an Early Booking $3000 Savings per couple; complimentary nonalcoholic and alcoholic beverages are served at lunch and dinner and throughout the cruise; all Shipboard Gratuities are included; Port Taxes are included; there is complimentary butler service at your request; complimentary fitness classes and special Low Air Add-Ons are available. And, you need to unpack only once!

Embark in New York City along the famed luxury liner row, whence elegant ships carried jubilant travelers into the Hudson River and on to the Atlantic, a ritual honed during the classic era of ocean cruising, when the voyage itself was as paramount to the holiday as the end point. During the best time of the year, cruise to the beautiful, pristine Canadian Maritime Provinces of Nova Scotia and Newfoundland. Retrace the routes of North America's discoverers, generations of immigrants and grand ocean liners across the Atlantic while enjoying an array of onboard pursuits or relaxing on deck as the day gives way to night and watching the radiant glow of stunning sunsets. Arriving on the "other side of the pond," call at Foynes and Cork along Ireland's dramatic, rugged coast, and, across the Celtic Sea, at Cornwall, the off-the-beaten-path, quaint English county whose secluded coves and charming villages await discovery. Southampton, a traditional transatlantic voyage port, beckons from the east through the English Channel.

In each port of call, you can choose to participate in fascinating shore excursions offering unique insights into local culture and history or explore the surroundings at your own pace. And if you prefer, you may choose to embark in Fort Lauderdale and cruise to New York City.

You don't want to miss this once-in-a-lifetime voyage of luxury and discovery. It is an excellent value and I encourage you to reserve now while Early Booking Savings and space are available.

Sincerely,

Ashley Clayton

The GOLDEN AGE of TRAVEL

During the 1920s and early 1930s, classic lines like White Star, Cunard, Holland America and Orient launched elegant ships that eclipsed the luxury and ability of their Edwardian- and Victorian-era steamship predecessors. Speed, style and service epitomized these grand queens of the sea, which ushered in an unprecedented era of comfort while visiting exotic and romantic destinations. These veritable floating palaces were modeled after the great hotels and grand manor houses of European royalty, and passengers were treated to a life of pampered luxury, entertainment and fine dining. The passage itself became the embodiment of deluxe travel and the ultimate destination. Today, you can evoke that glorious Golden Age of Travel on a voyage of a lifetime aboard the Six-Star Silversea M.S. SILVER WHISPER that employs the same lavish elegance and endless amenities of a transatlantic crossing.

New York City

The energy and excitement of New York, one of the most culturally rich cities in the world, emanates from the bright lights of Manhattan, colorful neighborhoods like Greenwich Village and the Upper West Side and legendary Central Park. Experience the tradition of boarding a vessel from the docks of lower Manhattan where illustrious steamships and historic luxury ocean liners began classic journeys across the Atlantic Ocean. Be on deck as the ship pulls away from the historic pier and cruises past the iconic Statue of Liberty and Manhattan's magnificent skyline.

Halifax, Nova Scotia, Canada

The capital of Nova Scotia and the largest city in the Atlantic Provinces of Canada is also the second largest natural harbor in the world. Native Mi'kmaq people have fished cod off the spectacular coast for millennia, and these once teeming waters led to an infusion of European fishing settlements. Its rich maritime and British military outpost history created a unique entry point for European immigration to Canada and gave this charming city a diverse and fascinating cultural heritage.

On a high point in Cobh, on the Great Island, stands the masterpiece of St. Colman's Cathedral, one

St. John's, Newfoundland

St. John's is the oldest English-founded city in North America. It was a British base for operations during the Seven Years' War, the American Revolutionary War and the War of 1812. During World War II, it was a base for the U.S. Army Air Corps and a harbor for Allied anti-submarine warfare ships. Spanish, French and Portuguese fishermen have trolled Newfoundland's waters for centuries and have left an indelible mark on the culture of this spectacular coastal city, once the largest supplier of salt cod in the world and the center of Newfoundland's lucrative fishing industry. Today, English and Irish influences are evident along the harbor where old Victorian merchant shops and colorful row houses line the wharf.

Transatlantic Crossing

Between port calls in Canada's Maritime Provinces and Foynes, Ireland, luxuriate in the ship's Six-Star comfort and pampered butler service. On your voyage across the Atlantic Ocean, rediscover the luxury of the Golden Age of Travel with onboard spa treatments, Relais & Châteaux® cuisine, lectures, complimentary fitness classes, casino, live entertainment and stargazing. Or, simply wrap up in a blanket and relax on deck with a complimentary beverage of your choice while contemplating a panoramic view of the Atlantic horizon.

Foynes and Limerick, Ireland

Charles Lindbergh first landed in Foynes in 1933 on a surveying flight stopover for aircraft crossing the Atlantic. Through the early 1940s, this charming "one lane" Irish village, perched on the southern bank of the Shannon Estuary, grew to be one of the largest civilian airports in Europe. Today, the Flying Boat Museum commemorates the town's heyday. Nearby, Limerick is situated on the picturesque River Shannon, where ancient streets lead to the well-preserved medieval precinct and the 800-year-old King John's Castle.

Cobh, Cork and Killarney

Many Irish immigrants sailing to North America departed from Cobh, a beautiful fishing port and seaside resort. Nearby, Cork, an EU-designated Capital of Culture, is a bustling city that received its first charter from Prince John of Norman England in 1185. Inland are several of Ireland's most spectacular cultural and natural highlights, including the massive 15th-century Blarney Castle, famous for its legendary Blarney Stone, and the splendor of the famous lakes of Killarney, a UNESCO Biosphere Reserve.

The sweeping landscape of open moorland, marshes and bogs in Cornwall's Bodmin Moor has inspired folklore and legends about the beautiful expanse since it was first farmed over 4000 years ago by Bronze Age settlers.

Along the waterfront in Cork Harbour, stands the gothic cathedral, one of the tallest buildings in Ireland.

Shaped by the dramatic weather forces of the Atlantic Ocean, Ireland's Cliffs of Moher are a majestic five-mile stretch of coastline.

◆ POST-CRUISE LONDON OPTION

Fowey, Cornwall, United Kingdom

Visit Fowey, a working port nestled on the bank of a sheltered estuary. This off-the-beaten-path Cornish village emanates the quintessential history and heritage of Britain, including traditional Cornish cream tea. Here, St. Catherine's Castle, a 16th-century fortress standing watch over the harbor, was retrofitted with anti-aircraft guns during World War II to protect Allied craft gathering in the surrounding waters prior to the D-Day operation. Further inland, King Arthur's legendary magic sword, "Excalibur," was said to have been returned to the Lady of the Lake, near Bodmin Moor.

Southampton

Southampton has one of the richest maritime traditions in England. It thrived as a commercial trading port for centuries, from the early days of seafaring Saxons and Romans, becoming one of England's wealthiest cities during the 20th century. This former home port of great 19th- and 20th-century ocean liners remains England's leading passenger harbor.

Steep sea cliffs meet the deep blue waters of the Atlantic at Slea Head on the Dingle Peninsula, the western most point of Ireland and, some would argue, of Europe.
